Aloha —

We are grateful for the 'ike (the wisdom) of great leaders, noting that our future lies in knowing, understanding, and preserving our history. The careful work of Lahainaluna students, Bishop Museum Surveyor Henry Kekahuna, the founding directors of Hui Mālama O Kāneiolouma Uncle Rupert Rowe, Uncle Billy Kaohelauli'i, the late Uncle James Kimokeo, and all of their remarkable volunteers whose dedication and intentional work pays tribute to those who have come before us and who still have much to teach us.

We, Kukui'ula Development and McBryde Resources, are honored and privileged to support and contribute to the continued preservation and restoration of this sacred, historical, Hawaiian resource, Ke Kahua O Kāneiolouma.

Mahalo to Hui Mālama o Kāneiolouma for being steadfast in protecting, restoring, interpreting, and sharing Kāua'i's cultural gem.

Mahalo Piha,
